The most common battery used in UPS system is SMF VRLA battery. These batteries produce Hydrogen gas during the charging process and it combines with the oxygen inside the battery to form water. This process is called recombination. But however, under certain condition like overcharging of battery, the Hydrogen gas escapes from the container ...

UPS power ratings are quoted in volt-amperes (VA) and/or watts. The rating in watts is equal to the rating in volts-amperes multiplied by the power factor. UPS output power rating in watts = UPS output in volts-amperes \times power factor. The battery load for sizing purpose is the UPS output rating in watts divided by the efficiency of the inverter.

If UPS #1 should fail, or if the load current exceeds the UPS's full load rating, the static switch will transfer the critical load to the static bypass (which is the output of UPS #2) within 4-5 milliseconds. When the UPS #1 is rectified, the loads will be transferred back to UPS#1 automatically without any interruption to the loads.
