Battery demand is rising quickly. Growth in battery demand for EVs has slowed slightly in the last year, but demand for stationary storage applications is rising faster than ever. Manufacturing of battery cells and the production of key battery components - such as cathodes, anodes, separators and electrolytes - is concentrated in China.

"The energy storage industry is facing growing pains. Yet, despite higher battery system prices, demand is clear. There will be over 1 terawatt-hour of energy capacity by 2030. The largest power markets in the world, like China, the US, India and the EU, have all passed legislation that incentivises energy storage deployments," Kou said.

Affordable, reliable energy storage is a critical component of the low-carbon energy system of the future, and the falling costs of battery technology have led to an acceleration in storage deployments for renewable integration and other applications. However, rising materials costs have erased three years of hard-won gains, driving up the costs of energy storageRead More
